NEED TIN CANS, PAPER IN SCRAP DRIVE TUESDAY

Six trucks, including the three fire engines, will be employed by the Gettysburg firemen Tuesday afternoon and evening in an effort to collect all of the scrap donated by local residents during the December drive before dark.

Vernon B. Corle, chairman of the firemen's salvage committee today urged that as much paper be placed for the firemen as tin cans in order to make the December drive a success.

"Shortages of all manner of waste materials are forcing us to ask every citizen to make a determined search of his home for salvage material," Corle said.

"Paper is especially needed and we hope to secure as much paper as we do tin cans—and we need three tons of tin cans. The railroad car waiting to haul the county's tin cans to a processing plant to be ready for war uses will hold 20 tons. We must fill it and Gettysburg's quota of cans is five tons. We already have two tons of cans and we must have three tons more if the car is to be loaded.

Urgently Needed

"While the need for the cans is immediate, so is the need for paper. All types of paper must be secured if the county is to help the nation properly in its salvage program. Bomb fins, containers for bombs, and innumerable other war needs are made from paper. The only way sufficient paper can be secured is by salvaging the waste paper that ordinarily is burned or otherwise destroyed around the home. The paper collected by the firemen on their monthly salvage campaign is turned over immediately to local dealers who ship within a day or two to the nearest processing plant so that the waste paper can be turned into war-needed articles."

The firemen urged that paper be sorted and stacked in bundles, with newspapers in one bundle, magazines in another and brown wrapping paper and other papers in other bundles. Parchment paper or greasy paper cannot be used, the firemen pointed out, with the grease preventing the breaking down of the paper into pulp at processing plants.

Catholics Pray For Peace On Wednesday

Prayers for peace will be said in Catholic churches throughout the country Wednesday, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception. Announcements urging parishioners to pray for peace were made in the county's eight Catholic churches Sunday.

Wednesday will be a holy day of obligation for Catholics throughout the United States. Masses will be said at St. Francis Xavier church here at 5:15, 7:30 and 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Confessions will be heard Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at St. Francis Xavier church.

Trio Report Deer Kills Last Week

Homer Baltzley shot a four-point buck weighing 120 pounds Saturday morning while hunting near the S. L. Baltzley orchards, west of Orrtanna.

Raymond Guise shot a four-point buck last Friday morning at 9 o'clock near Green Ridge.

Clair A. Rebert, McKnightstown, was another countant to shoot his deer shortly after the opening of the hunting season last week.

Rebert brought down a 148-pound, nine-point buck near Big Flat in South Mountains last Monday before noon.

SWOPE IMPROVING

Further improvement has been noted over the week-end in the condition of J. Donald Swope, Esq., West Broadway. His condition has been serious since he was stricken last Tuesday night.

SHOOTERS 8-POINTER

Floyd Brown, Fairfield R. 1, shot an eight-point buck weighing 170 pounds last Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

16 SHOPPING DAYS BEFORE XMAS

BOY SURRENDERS TO LOCAL POLICE

Tired of "dodging police" for the last week, Eugene Myers, 19, Franklin, Indiana, placed himself in the custody of Borough Officer Lloyd E. Wisler at the engine house, Saturday evening.

He told the officer he is wanted in his home town for check forgeries involving about $120. A teletype message to authorities confirmed Myers' story. Police there said they hold a warrant for his arrest.

Myers, who waived extradition and said he would accompany Indiana officers back home, apparently used the money he secured through the forgeries to pay his traveling expenses through the south for the last week. When he gave himself up here, he was out of funds, Wisler said.

The youth, who holds an honorable discharge from the Army, is being held in the county jail until Indiana authorities reach here.

DR. A. R. WENTZ ELKS' MEMORIAL RITES SPEAKER

Dr. A. R. Wentz, president of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary, delivered the address at the annual memorial services conducted Sunday afternoon by the Gettysburg Lodge 1045, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks.

Dr. Wentz admonished the lodge members to keep their sense of unity with deceased members through spiritual remembrance and urged that the finer and stronger qualities of the deceased should be retained while the weak should be blotted out.

Good qualities of character make themselves felt indefinitely, said Dr. Wentz, and it is those which result in a close unity between the living and dead.

Exalted Ruler Herbert L. Oyler presided at the service and was assisted in ritualistic rites by officers of the lodge.

The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock, rector of St. Francis Xavier Catholic church.

The Gettysburg college quartet, composed of William L. Black, Francis B. Myers, George M. Hersherberger and Paul R. Swank, sang "Father in Heaven," "Sun of My Soul," "Lead Kindly Light," "Steal Away," and "Te Deum."

Members of the lodge who died during the past year were William M. Eckert, Charles B. Tate, C. A. Williams, R. E. Wible, J. M. Warren, George E. Hoffman.

Will Visit Army Reception Center

Five Adams county educators along with a dozen or more schoolmen from York, Franklin and Cumberland counties will visit the New Cumberland Army reception center, Tuesday, at the invitation of the education branch of the Army.

The group will include L. C. Keefer, superintendent of the Gettysburg public schools; G. W. Leffever, Gettysburg high school principal; L. V. Stock, supervising principal at Biglerville; C. P. Keefer, New Oxford supervising principal, and Elmer M. Gruver, East Berlin supervising principal, and schoolmen from Hanover, Waynesboro, Chambersburg and Carlisle.

The group will arrive at New Cumberland at 10 a. m. and will lunch there. The visitors will be shown the school for inductees at the reception center and will see how the new recruits for the Army are handled upon their arrival there.

Fire Alarm Test Was Real Alarm

With the alarm sounding at 12 o'clock noon today—the time for the weekly test of the local fire siren—Gettysburg firemen responded to the unusually long blast and found the car of Harry Stout, janitor at the High Street school building, had caught fire near the school building when he attempted to start the motor to drive to his home on Hanover street.

The flames were confined to the motor but the wiring and engine apparently were considerably damaged firemen said.

Don't forget Woman's League Street Fair at "Y" tomorrow, 8:30 to 9.

66th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tawney, of 103 South Washington street, are quietly celebrating their sixty-sixth wedding anniversary today.

Mr. and Mrs. Tawney, who were married on December 6, 1877, are, so far as is known, the oldest married couple in Gettysburg. Both are enjoying surprisingly good health at the age of 87.

Mr. Tawney has served for the last 20 years as street commissioner of the borough and will complete the twentieth year of service on December 31, 1943.

The couple are members of St. James Lutheran church. Until the past few years both attended the services regularly and even now not a Sunday passes without Mr. Tawney being found in his pew.

Of the five children born to Mr. and Mrs. Tawney only two are living. Mrs. Tawney only two are living. Mrs. Caroline Pretz, Buford avenue, and Mrs. Norman S. Wolf, wife of Dr. Norman S. Wolf, pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran church, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania.

There are five grandchildren. Mrs. Ralph D. Strevig, Hagerstown, Maryland; David A. Tawney, West

C. E. GROUPS TO HOLD MEETINGS

Three conferences will be held in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon, December 12, at 2:15 o'clock by three members of the Adams County Council of Christian Education.

The conferences will be for all district superintendents of Adults, Young Peoples' and Children's departments of the county.

Mrs. Lloyd Garretson, Arents-ville, county superintendent of the Children's department, will lead the Children's division conference. Mrs. Russell Stoops, Gettysburg R. D., superintendent of the county Young People's department, will conduct the Young People's division meeting and H. T. Baker, Littlestown, superintendent of the Adult department, will lead the Adult group meeting. Mr. Baker will also have charge of the devotionals.

Representatives are expected to be present from the six districts in Adams county. Plans will be outlined for the 1944 program. All interested persons are invited.

Hospital Report

Harold Little, Hanover, who was injured in an auto accident at York Springs November 15, has been discharged as a patient from the Warner hospital. A Fort Meyer soldier was fatally injured in the same accident.

Lucille Stambaugh, Taneytown R. 2, submitted to an operation this morning for the removal of her tonsils.

Other admissions included Miss Maude Mickle, Iron Springs; Mrs. N. Roger Gilbert, Westminster; Rosalie Lesser, Gettysburg R. 3. Those discharged were Mrs. Raymond Lawver, Baltimore street; Luther Jacobs, East Berlin; Mrs. Mark A. Eckert and infant son, Mark K., 2nd, Martinsburg, West Virginia; Mrs. Lottie Shriver, Bendersville, and Mrs. William E. Stough and infant daughter, Sandra Irene, Aspers.

NAZIS PUSHED BACKWARD ON ITALIAN LINES

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Dec. 6 (AP)—The American Fifth Army, by-passing German strongpoints, has captured new heights commanding the road to Rome west of Mignano, while the British Eighth Army's drive has carried to the Moro river, 10 miles beyond the Sangro. Allied headquarters announced today.

The Nazis launched strong counterattacks against American and British infantry storming the heights in bitter hand-to-hand battles, and threw in new reinforcements including mechanized Grenadiers against the Eighth Army in a desperate attempt to halt the British.

A counterattack west of Venafro was hurled back by the Fifth Army with severe losses.

Bitter Fighting

Lt.-Gen. Mark V. Clark's headquarters announced that the enemy, who is fighting stubbornly for every inch of ground, had been driven from three more commanding elevations by the Americans who are smashing into Nazi fortifications in the area of the rugged slopes of Mount Majoale. British infantry of the Fifth Army are rooting out Nazi defenders in the equally rough area of Mount Camino.

From their newly-won positions the Allied troops could gaze out across the valley to Cassino, and beyond it to the valley which leads northwest into Italy's capital.

In one sector, small units of Germans still holding out defiantly on the summit of a ridge were cut off by the Allied drive well beyond.

British warships, steaming boldly within range of enemy shore batteries, were disclosed to have supported the Eighth Army's drive up the Adriatic coast in recent days with bombardments of German supply routes, bases and shipping.

Bombard Coast

The British destroyers bombarded the coastal road between Pescara and Gullianova, sent shells screaming into the coastal towns of Ancona and San Benedetto, and sank three enemy coastal craft and a merchant vessel.

Aerial support of the Allied ground forces was limited by bad weather, but the enemy-held Yugoslav port of Split was bombed yesterday by medium bombers and a floating dock at Orbetello, on Italy's west coast, was hit and left burning.

The British Eighth Army's drive to the Moro river represented a gain of about two and a half miles from San Vito, whose capture was announced yesterday, and carried the Adriatic offensive to within 14 miles of Pescara.

REPORT CIANO IS EXECUTED

London, Dec. 6 (AP)—A Reuters dispatch from the Swiss-Italian frontier said today that Count Galeazzo Ciano, former Fascist foreign minister of Italy and Benito Mussolini's son-in-law, was shot this morning by a firing squad, according to reports reaching the frontier.

Mussolini's son-in-law turned against him in the grand council meeting last July which ousted the disgraced Duce as Italy's dictator.

The reports, which were not confirmed, said that Ciano was shot in the back after being accused of high treason and sentenced to death by a special court of government, a "German puppet organization." The execution was said to have taken place somewhere in northern Italy.

York Machines Crash In Town

Damage estimated at about $40 was caused Sunday evening about 5:50 o'clock when two autos from York collided in the fourth block of York street without injuring any of the occupants. Borough Officer L. E. Wisler investigated. No charges have been laid.

The policeman reported that Rodney Smith, 311 Atlantic avenue, York, attempted to make a left turn into an alley when his machine was struck by a car operated by Charles Boyer, 829 West King street, York. Both machines had been traveling east.

Stalin Pays Tribute To U. S. Production

Teheran (Delayed) (AP)—Premier Stalin solemnly got to his feet one night at a dinner attended by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

He looked soberly about him at the assembled military and diplomatic leaders of the United States, Great Britain and Russia and lifted his glass to American war production.

"Without American production the United Nations could never have won the war," the Soviet leader was reported to have declared.

The response to Stalin's unexpected gesture was terrific.

O'NEAL RECORD BOOK GIVEN TO NATIONAL PARK

An 80-year-old record book of the late Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal of Gettysburg, in which he recorded the locations and other information concerning the hundreds of soldier graves he marked at many spots on the Gettysburg battlefield immediately after the three-day conflict here, has been presented to the library of the Gettysburg National Park office by Mrs. J. T. Huddle, Carlisle street, his daughter.

This listing of the temporary burial spots for hundreds of Confederate dead—and the record of the shipment later of many of the bodies to southern cemeteries—is considered an important addition to the collection of battle lore in the local park office.

It was explained there today that Doctor O'Neal, who was a native of Fairfax county, Virginia, was selected to mark temporary graves and contact families of the soldier dead because of his wide acquaintance in Virginia and some of the other southern states.

3,320 Bodies Moved to South

Park office records show that a total of 3,320 Confederate bodies were removed from temporary burial spots on the field here to southern cemeteries during the 10 years following the battle.

Samuel Weaver was placed in charge of the exhumation of the Union dead in 1863 and 1864 and his son, the late Dr. R. B. Weaver, of Philadelphia, who died in 1936, supervised the removal of the hundreds of Confederate dead from 1870 to 1873.

Records show that of the 3,320 bodies shipped to southern burial grounds, 2,935 went to Richmond; 137 to Raleigh; 101 to Savannah; 74 to Charleston, and 73 others to individual cemeteries. It was Doctor O'Neal's work on the field that made possible the location and identification—either as individuals or as to states—of many of the bodies.

The book has been in the possession of Mrs. Huddle since her father's death in 1913. He came to Gettysburg to practice in 1863 after having been a member of the class of 1844 at Gettysburg (then Pennsylvania) college. He was a graduate of the Maryland Medical school and practiced in Hanover and Baltimore before coming here.

Fractures Thigh In Odd Accident

Lonnie Chrismer, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Chrismer, Gettysburg R. 5, is a patient in the Warner hospital as the result of a fractured left thigh received in an odd accident last Friday afternoon.

The youngster was lying in a bed at the home of an aunt when his left foot became wedged between the wall and bed and in an effort to free himself he twisted his leg in such a manner as to cause the fracture.

Allies Plan Third Front; An Enduring World Peace

By JOHN F. CHESTER AND WILLIAM McGAFFIN

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Joseph Stalin have agreed completely on "the scope and timing of operations" to smash the German Army from three sides, an announcement signed by the three statesmen in an epic four-day meeting in Teheran, Iran, and released here today disclosed.

The Allied leaders also chartered a peace era in which all nations would be invited to join "a world family of democratic nations" based on the reaffirmed principles of the Atlantic charter.

Hold Four-Day Conference

The history-making conference of the heads of the world's most powerful military and political combine was held in the Iranian capital from November 28 to December 1, attended also by scores of top-flight military chieftains and diplomats from the United States, Britain and Russia.

Heavily underscoring the urgency of the military phase, the combined British and American general staffs subsequently returned to Cairo, scene of the November 22-26 meeting of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek with President Roosevelt and the Prime Minister, and staged concentrated planning sessions from last Friday through today.

Churchill joined in these and other sessions, leading to the probability that other disclosures of paramount international importance are still to come.

President Roosevelt's whereabouts since the Teheran conferences were not disclosed, however.

Two Teheran declarations signed simply "Roosevelt, Stalin, Churchill," and dated December 1 announced these results:

To Crush Germany From Three Fronts

War—"Our military staffs have joined in our round table discussions and we have concerted our plans for the destruction of the German forces. We have reached complete agreement as to the scope and timing of operations which will be undertaken from the east, west and south.

"The common understanding which we have reached guarantees that victory will be ours.

"No power on earth can prevent our destroying the German armies by land, their U-boats by sea and their war plants from the air. Our attacks will be relentless and increasing."

Peace—"We are sure that our concord will make it an enduring peace. We recognize fully the supreme responsibility resting upon us and all the United Nations to make a peace which will command the good will of the overwhelming masses of the peoples of the world and banish the scourge and terror of war for many generations.

Erase Tyranny, Slavery, Oppression

"We shall seek the cooperation and active participation of all nations, large and small, whose peoples in heart and mind are dedicated, as are our own peoples, to the elimination of tyranny and slavery, oppression and intolerance. We will welcome them as they may choose to come into a world family of democratic nations."

The concluding paragraph of one declaration devoted to the status of Iran as an ally of the three nations apparently was the key to the envisaged "world family of democratic nations."

After expressing their respect for Iran's independence and territorial integrity, and promising economic aid to that country which has facilitated the flow of Allied supplies to Russia, the three leaders said:

International Peace, Security

"They (the United States, Britain and Russia) count upon the participation of Iran together with all other peace-loving nations in the establishment of international peace, security and prosperity after the war in accordance with the principles of the Atlantic Charter, to which all four governments have continued to subscribe."

The Atlantic Charter declaration by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill after their historic sea rendezvous in August, 1940, set out these general Allied principles and post-war aims:

- 1—They seek no territorial or other aggrandizement.
- 2—No territorial changes that do not accord with the "freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned."
- 3—Respect for the right of all peoples to choose their own form of government; restoration of "sovereign rights and self-government" to those "forcibly deprived of them."

World Trade

- 4—Endeavor, "with due respect for existing obligations," to promote a better distribution of raw materials and trade

HITLER FIGHTS LIKE A DOOMED RAT IN CORNER, SAYS OBSERVER

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There's one overwhelming fact which neither Germany nor Japan can escape in connection with the verdicts of the Allied conferences, and this is that the big three—America, Russia and the British commonwealth of nations—have the power to enforce any edict, no matter how extreme, which they may issue.

The Allied resources tower over those of the enemy like a mountain over a mole hill. And the United Nations now have the actual equipment to get ahead with the job.

We have to make one reservation here. Our resources aren't sufficiently developed at the moment so that we can deliver a quick knockout to both Germany and Japan simultaneously. But we have the strength to hold the one while we smash the other speedily. There's no longer any question about that.

A Doomed Rat
Since Nazism provides the greater immediate menace, it must be crushed first. Herr Hitler recognizes his danger fully, as is clear from the frantic efforts Propaganda Minister Goebbels and his dummies are making to blind the German public to the truth.

The Fuehrer is fighting like a rat in a corner, and like a doomed rat he is highly dangerous. We should overlook that. Despite the fact that it now is clear he can't escape, he may do a lot of damage before we crush his life out. Berlin is persistently threatening to employ a secret weapon in retaliation for the Allied bombing of Germany, and the Nazi radio says the German High Command "intends by one fell, drastic stroke to end the unbridled mass murder," adding that "mankind is not far from the point where it can at will blow up half the globe."

"Secret Weapon"
That sounds like tall talk—but we shouldn't dismiss it as such, for these are days not only of tall talk but of tall deeds. The Germans may have a secret weapon which may cause much death and destruction. We can take it for granted that they haven't anything that will win the war for them, but they still may inflict grievous hurts.

What sort of secret weapon have they—if any? Well, several possibilities have been a matter of speculation. For instance, there's been much talk of a new long-distance rocket gun of vast power. Then, too, there is always the chance that the Nazis might resort to the use of poison gas as a final fling, although one would think they would be deterred by the certainty of terrible retaliation in kind. All the major belligerents are fully equipped with new poison gases more awful than anything yet tried in war.

Lines Sagging
In any event, it shouldn't be long now before we know what Hitler has up his sleeve for his final trick. He will have to use it soon, since the Allies patently are rushing for the kill. There's a speed-up on all fronts.

The Red armies are flinging themselves with renewed fury on the invaders along the eastern front, and today's dispatches show increasing danger to Hitler's line in White Russia and to the north. The Muscovites are aiming to turn his northern flank in the Baltic states—a catastrophe for him.

Down in Italy the American Fifth Army and the British Eighth are ripping into the German winter line in a fresh offensive. The Allies are bent on blasting open a road to Rome, and are making progress in fierce fighting. There is no let-up in the terrific bombing which the American and British air forces are inflicting on the Reich. And plans for the invasion of France are being pushed vigorously.

One of Berlin's great anxieties concerns Turkey's position regarding the war. The Nazis fear that the Turks are about to join the Allies or at least to grant the United Nations air bases from which they could operate in the Balkan and Black sea region. The Nazi news agency Transocean says President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill conferred with President Ismet Inonu of Turkey in Cairo Saturday.

Get Four-Pointer In Potter County

A party of 10 Adams countians who hunted deer in Potter county, near Austin, Pa., returned home Sunday with one four-point deer. The buck was shot by James Kump of Cashtown on the first day of the season. The animal dressed about 110 pounds.

Members of the party included Paul Settle, Donald Crone, Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder, F. Mark Bream, Victor Warner, Gilbert Crabb, Otis Bucher, Emory Wentz, Daniel Yingling and Mr. Kump. On Wednesday the group was joined by Robert Crone and Charles Smith of Harrisburg. Levi Cook of Gettysburg was camp cook.

The hunters said they sighted only three bucks during the entire week of hunting.

CHURCHILL IS HOST AT FETE ON BIRTHDAY

Teheran, Iran, Nov. 30 (Delayed)

(AP)—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin matched eloquence tonight in a demonstration of mutual admiration as the British Prime Minister, at an enthusiastic birthday dinner he gave himself eased into his 70th year amid the exhilarating applause of his two fellow statesmen.

Stalin, who set the key to the evening's atmosphere, breezed into the British legation talking freely through an interpreter to the assembled guests, removed his great coat and lifted a glass to friend Churchill.

The dinner-jacketed Churchill, a ubiquitous, ebullient host, shepherded his guests into dinner in the Victorian setting of the legation dining room. Thirty-four sat down around the long mahogany table under the stern gaze of Queen Victoria who looked down from one wall. From the other wall there looked down the sympathetic countenance of Edward, VII. Roosevelt sat on Churchill's right and Stalin on Churchill's left.

Five-Star Guest List

Churchill's five-star guest list, besides Roosevelt, who was the first to arrive, and Stalin, who was the last included Harry L. Hopkins, the President's official adviser; Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden; Admiral Sir Andrew B. Cunningham, chief of the British naval staff; Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov; Marshal Klement Voroshilov; W. Averell Harriman, U. S. ambassador to Russia; Gen. Henry H. Arnold, U. S. Army Air Force chief; Admiral Ernest King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet; Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the U. S. Army; Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal; Admiral William D. Leahy, President Roosevelt's chief of staff; Lt. Gen. Brehon H. Somervell, chief of U. S. Army Services Forces; Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British ambassador to Russia; John G. Winant, U. S. ambassador to England; Field Marshal Sir John Dill, chief of the British Military Mission to the U. S.; Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the British Imperial general staff; Lt. Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, Churchill's personal military adviser; Sir Alexander Cadogan, under secretary for foreign affairs; Sir Reader Bullard, British minister to Teheran; Ford Moran, the prime minister's physician, and a Mr. Pavlov, who was Stalin's interpreter.

Churchill's WAAP daughter, Mrs. Sarah Oliver, the only woman present, served as hostess.

Dinner Menu

Capt. Randolph Churchill also was present, as were Roosevelt's son, Elliott, and his son-in-law, Maj. John Boettiger, and Hopkins's son, Robert, who is making a moving picture record of the President's trip.

The menu consisted of Persian soup, boiled Salmon and Trout from the Caspian sea, Turkey ice called "Persian Lantern" and cheese souffle. This was followed by a small birthday cake on which there were 69 candles crowded over the "V" sign marked in the white icing.

At the conclusion of the dinner Churchill announced he was going to follow the Russian custom of toasts and formal toasts were drunk in French and Persian wine to King George VI of England; President Michael Kalinin of Russia and President Roosevelt. These were the first of the long evening.

Stalin, of course, talked through an interpreter, but he had his own "sign language" for effectively expressing his sentiment. Whenever any one was toasted he got up with his glass, walked over to them and smilingly clinked glasses before drinking. There were 34 guests present and each one gave at least one toast. Eye-witnesses maintain Stalin got up and clinked glasses at every toast.

$500,000 Blaze In Atlantic City

Atlantic City, N. Y., Dec. 6 (AP)—A beachfront block was in charred ruins and 150 persons were homeless today after a $500,000 fire which destroyed 16 boardwalk buildings, including two apartment houses.

Fireman Harry Yard, 60, died at Atlantic City hospital of a heart ailment aggravated by exertion in fighting the flames. Fire Chief Rex Farley said.

Coast Guards from a training station here helped prevent further damage by dousing sparks on the roofs of other buildings in the area. City authorities had not determined the cause of the blaze.

HEAVY FIGHTING AHEAD

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Some of the heaviest naval fighting of the war probably will come next year, in the opinion of Secretary of the Navy Knox, with the United States fleet engaging Japanese units which have yet to see action. "It is believed that 1944 will find the United States naval service sailing into a number of ports of call on the long road to total victory," Knox writes in an issue of the Army and Navy journal dedicated to the second anniversary of the Pearl Harbor attack.

NEW DEADLINE ON INCOME TAX LAW NEARING

By JAMES MARLOW AND
GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—It's time for all Federal income taxpayers to determine just what, if anything, they need to do before the next payment deadline, December 15.

If you filed a declaration of estimated tax in September and paid half the indicated debt to Uncle Sam then, you must pay the other half.

If you're a farmer with sufficient income to require filing, you must send in an estimate and pay. (Farmers weren't required to file in September, by special dispensation of Congress.)

If you filed in September and your income has changed to the extent that your estimate is proving more than 20 per cent too low, you must send in an amended declaration and pay the higher tax if you're to escape penalties next March.

Four Groups to File

If you didn't have to file a September declaration but now come within one of the required classifications, you must file and make payment.

Here are the four classes of taxpayers called upon for these reports and payments:

1. Those whose income for the year is more than $2,700 if single (or married but not living with husband or wife), or more than $3,500 for a married couple, with or without dependents. Married couples may file either separate or joint returns.

2. Individuals whose income isn't subject to the withholding tax—the deductions from pay under pay-as-you-go—but who have income for the year of more than $500 if single or $624 if married. In addition to persons who aren't on regular wages or salaries, this group includes ministers, farm laborers and household servants. (Exception: Members of the armed services, who may wait until next March 15.)

Forms Available

3. Those who are on regular wages or salaries subject to the withholding tax but who have additional income this year from other sources amounting to more than $100.

4. Anyone whose income this year will be less than in 1942—if he was required to file an income tax return for 1942. (If the 1942 income tax, as figured last March, is greater than the estimated 1943 income and victory taxes, then the 1942 tax becomes, in effect, the 1943 tax.)

Internal revenue offices will supply declaration forms and work-sheets, and local collectors are sending bills to those who filed declarations in September.

Hanoverian, Hit By Countian's Car, Dies

William M. Williams, 77-year-old extracts salesman, of Hanover, who was injured when he was struck by an automobile in Hanover, Friday, died Saturday morning at 11:40 o'clock at the Hanover General hospital.

According to police, Mr. Williams was crossing the street when he was struck by a car driven by Ralph Sanders, New Oxford R. 1. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

Mr. Williams' injuries included a broken leg, lacerations of the face and bruises. He also suffered from shock.

Mr. Williams was a son of the late Joseph and Harriette Maxwell Williams. He was affiliated with the POA camp of Hanover.

Surviving are his widow, who before marriage was Emma Rebeck; one daughter, Mrs. Arthur O. Seeling, Hanover, and one sister, Mrs. Annie Cleaver, Emporia, Kansas.

Funeral Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the W. A. Feiser funeral home, Hanover, with the Rev. R. H. Dick, pastor of Grace Evangelical church, officiating. Interment in Spring Hill cemetery, Shippensburg.

COX HEARING TESTIMONY IS 'MUST' READING

By TED MEIER

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Must reading for hot stove league fans this winter is the testimony at the William D. Cox hearing here Saturday before Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis at which Cox, former president of the Phillies, sought without success to be cleared of the charge he bet on ball games.

The testimony brought out many hitherto undisclosed details in the turbulent 1943 career of the 34-year-old New Yorker who purchases the Phillies last January and on Nov. 23 was banned from the game for life by Landis. It is fascinating reading.

The reason, Cox testified, that he stated to Landis on Nov. 3 and Nov. 6 and to the public in a radio broadcast Nov. 23 that he "made a few small and sentimental bets on my team to win" was because it was part of "an ill-advised plan to play detective to smoke out a certain group of Philadelphians in the organization about whom I was suspicious."

"Good Name Demolished"

"The truth is he did not bet," Cox's attorney, Lloyd Paul Stryker, declared. "When Cox first saw you, Judge (on Aug. 14), he told the truth. He did not bet. x x x In the absence of proof the least that can be done is to exonerate him of the charge of betting on games. x x x I appeal to you x x x to vindicate him of the charge that is predicated solely on ill-advised admissions. He had decided to let matters drop, but when he read the papers he found his good name demolished and asked for this hearing."

At the end of the seven-hour long hearing, however, Landis declared "there is no help I can give Cox. x x x There is an utter impossibility to connect this plan with the repetition of his story on Nov. 3 and Nov. 6."

Names Randolph

On those two dates Cox said he made "approximately 15 to 20 bets of from $25 to $100 per game on the Phillies to win." He said he ceased on May 20 when he learned of the rule against betting.

Cox declared he planned to "give out false information to test the loyalty of a man so that if this information came back to me through other channels I would discover who the people were."

Question by Landis: "What was the name of the man to whom you told this false information?"

A: "Mr. Randolph (L. Wister Randolph, vice president, stockholder and director of the club). I told him on Aug. 10 that I made a few small bets on the team in the early part of the season. x x x This information came back to me on Oct. 5."

"Fifty Charges"—This was the date of a stormy board of directors meeting at which Nathan (Babe) Alexander, assistant to Cox, called upon Cox to resign as president and sell his stock because of "this obvious bad record in running the club."

Cox later did resign as president and sell his stock to Robert R. M. Carpenter, of Wilmington, Del., who installed his 28-year-old son as president. Alexander acted as go-between.

Alexander, called as a witness by Landis, testified he had preferred "some 50 charges" against Cox at the meeting Oct. 15.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—From India Sergeant John Derr, former Greensboro, North Carolina sports editor sends a harrowing report of the hazards of golf in the Far East that makes our shortages of caddies and golf balls sound like minor league stuff.

The tale as told in the "CBI Roundup" involves sun-baked fairways that will send a well-hit drive bouncing crazily into a rough that really is jungle, greens with "more bumps than an Indian mattress" and caddies and ball boys—you need at least two of the latter—who pay even less attention to their duties than those at home.

To this the cheerful Sergeant Derr adds a penciled comment: "Only lost four balls, two caddies last week." . . . The same paper reports that bomber squadron in China is seeking a new baseball diamond because the one now in use is so situated that "if you over-run third, you're liable to land in Jap occupied territory." . . . All of which proves that you don't need to keep 'em playing, they'll do it themselves.

REAL GIANTS

Six of the eight managers of National League Baseball clubs used to play for the New York Giants under John McGraw and four of them—Mel Ott, Billy Southworth, Frank Frisch and Freddie Fitzsimmons—were members of the same club in 1925. The other two are Casey Stengel and Bill McKechnie. Wonder where you'll find another record like that?

MONDAY MATINEE

Morich, the only Kentucky Derby winner ever bred in California, recently celebrated his 24th birthday at Ad Astra stables in Van Nuys, California. . . . The American league's big decision at last week's meetings was to extend batting practice for visiting teams from 20 to 32 minutes up to June 1 because of spring training in the north. . . . Hank Armstrong is tentatively booked for another "comeback" bout January 14 at Portland, Oregon. And Joe Lynch is trying to book an outdoor bout between Armstrong and Sammy Angott at Hollywood, California, in February. . . . Carl Hubbell retired from pitching with a lifetime earned run average of 2.98, which probably won't help him a bit when he needs an infielder for Bristol, Ten.-Va.

THE ORIGINAL EXPERTS

According to the dictionary the "Arabian Barb" was one of a strain of exceptionally speedy horses from which modern racers are descended, but some west coast horse followers figure the Barb was sunk into by a pair of distinguished Arab visitors. . . . When the Princes Amir Faisal and Emir Khalid of Saudi Arabia dropped in at Bay Meadows this fall, they had the winners of five of the eight races, including one nag that paid $47.10 for $2.

Methodist Women Ask Clergy Rights

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)

A resolution to be presented to the Methodist General Conference of 1944 requesting "full clergy rights for God called and prepared women" was adopted here by the Women's Christian service division of the Methodist Board of Missions.

The resolution presented at the fourth annual meeting of the Women's division Saturday said "since the church has sent many ministers to the armed forces and pulpits have been left vacant, we recommend sending a memorial to the Methodist General Conference in 1944 requesting full clergy rights for God called and prepared women that they might be assured the security of the ministry and their profession."

WAY OF THE WORLD

Los Angeles (AP)—"I can't sell him," sobbed 12-year-old Barbara Olsen as her young steer was led to the auction block at the Great Western Livestock show. "He's just like one of the family."

Others reminded her that rules of the show required the sale. Finally she pushed out her chin, gave the Angus a last hug and said, "I guess that's the way it's got to be for us cattle breeders."

No portion of the earth's surface is wholly without earthquakes.

Landis' Ruling On Cox Stands

William D. Cox, former president of the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team, arises from a chair at left after hearing Baseball's High Commissioner, K. M. Landis (right), rule he would not change his Nov. 23 decision ousting Cox from baseball for life for betting on his club. The decision climaxed a seven-hour hearing in New York city. With his back to the camera is Leslie O'Connor, Landis' secretary.

KILREA CRASHES 100-GOAL CLUB RANKS SUNDAY

(By The Associated Press)

After failing to score against Pittsburgh and Buffalo earlier in the week, Wally Kilrea, of the Hershey Bears, last night finally crashed the ranks of the coveted 100-goal club in the American Hockey League.

He scored one of the goals that helped the Bears whip Indianapolis, 4 to 2, before 4,793 at the Indiana city. He is the twelfth member of the select group and the second to make the grade this season. The other is Lou Trudel of Cleveland.

Lloyd Roubell of Pittsburgh probably will become the thirteenth member of the club before long. He has rapped in 91 goals to date in his American league career. Roubell went scoreless last night as the Hornets lost a 2 to 1 struggle to Buffalo before 8,754 on the Bisons' home ice. The Hornets tried desperately to tie the score in the last minute, pulling their goalie away from the goal. All their efforts went for naught.

The fast stepping Cleveland Barons, leaders in the Western Division, ended Providence's record of going through seven home games without a defeat. A crowd of 5,853 saw the Barons beat the Reds, 4 to 2.

T FORMATIONS, WIDE OFFENSE, GRID FEATURES

By JACK HAND

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Spread of the T formation and a tendency toward wide open "anything goes" offense were the outstanding trends of the 1943 football season as reported to the Associated Press in a nation-wide poll of coaches, sports writers and officials.

The fans received the grid game with varying degrees of enthusiasm, ranging from the usual hysteria accorded the likes of the Notre Dame-Army and Penn-Navy games to a general apathy in a few sections of the nation where poorly matched teams or lack of competition stifled interest.

Although some fans may have been lukewarm in generating enthusiasm, every section polled reported that the players and student bodies retained more than usual interest. One sidelight on that phase came from Arkansas A. and M. to the effect that there was absolutely no discussion among the players as to sometimes true in normal times with many colleges who play subsidized football.

Plans Indefinite

Plans for 1944 were described as indefinite with war trends holding the obvious key to all the answers. All schools that played this fall expected to field some kind of a club next year although there was little downright optimism. Most expect a general leveling-off process as the Navy V-12 stars leave for active duty. It was pointed out that the new boys will not have the years of early collegiate grid training that the '43 crop enjoyed.

Andy Kerr of Colgate expressed the coach's viewpoint of the general situation when he said, "we tried to develop a varied offense without using any more plays than necessary." In most cases the defense suffered.

The superiority of teams using Navy and Marine trainees was obvious as was the effect of the mid-season switch of talent that junked the hopes of many elevens.

There was less hysteria, less high pressure and more genuine interest in the sport for sport's sake, a point that many have been trying to make for years.

TRIPLE SLAYING GOES TO GRAND JURY TUESDAY

Mercer, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Mercer county's triple slaying of October 7 will be placed in the hands of the grand jury tomorrow.

The jurors will be asked to indict William A. Morrell, 20-year-old employee on the Everett Wilson dairy farm near here, on a charge of first-degree murder said District Attorney Edwin C. Moon.

Evidence also will be presented against Janice Graham, 20, who is accused of being an accessory after the fact and accomplice, Moon added.

Morrell and Miss Graham left the Wilson farm together in an automobile the afternoon of the slaying of three persons: Mrs. Helen Wilson, 46, wife of the farm owner; Mrs. Catherine Wilson, 76, Wilson's mother, and Robert McKay, 70, a farmer.

Trial Next Week

About 24 hours later, the young man and woman were arrested together in Ohio. Taken before Justice of the Peace Thomas McClain, Morrell pleaded guilty to the information charging him with first-degree murder.

District Attorney Moon said he expected the grand jury to complete its work by Wednesday, and added:

"The murder case is No. 1 on the docket for the December term of court. If indicted, Morrell will come to trial next Monday."

Hearing In Fraud At Mechanicsburg

Harrisburg, Dec. 6 (AP)—Arguments will be heard in federal court here Thursday on a motion to quash an indictment, charging conspiracy to defraud the government, against Theodore R. Potts, second vice president of Brann and Stuart, Inc., contracting firm which built the $40,000,000 naval supply base at nearby Mechanicsburg.

Potts, of Princeton, New Jersey, and four other civilians were indicted on charges of submitting "false, fraudulent and collusive bids" on a sub-contract calling for rental of riding horses but U. S. Attorney Frederick Folmer said the motion to quash the indictment was made on behalf of Potts only.

Shortly before court officials and prospective jurors gathered for the opening of the December term, Folmer said nothing definite had been arranged toward bringing any of the Mechanicsburg cases to trial at this session.

Ten other civilians have been indicted on various charges of alleged irregularities in the construction of the 600-acre depot.

Lebanon Foundrymen Consider Strike's End

Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Employees of the Lebanon Steel Foundry, idle since Friday in a work stoppage, gather today to consider a company proposal they return to work pending settlement of the dispute under machinery set up in the contract between the firm and the United Steel Workers of America (CIO).

A statement issued by T. S. Quinn, treasurer and general manager of the company, said the firm "proposed to the union that all employees return to work Monday morning with the normal 8 o'clock shift."

"The union agreed to call a meeting of its members at 2 o'clock Monday," the statement asserted, "for the purpose of considering the company's proposal."

Union officials were not available for comment but company officers pointed out the start of the mid-night shift would be the first opportunity workers will have to return to their jobs after the meeting.

GEOLOGISTS SAY GREAT QUANTITY OF GOLD IN PA.

Harrisburg, Dec. 6 (AP)—There's gold in Pennsylvania hills—this industrial and agricultural state turned out almost $750,000 worth of the precious metal in the last 16 years.

Asserting that while there "is a great quantity" of gold ore in many parts of the commonwealth, Dr. George W. Stone, geologist in the Department of Internal Affairs, claimed today the only "pay dirt" worth retrieving is in Lebanon county.

"This production—which also includes silver—is purely a by-product and is in no sense a gold mine," he added in an interview explaining both gold and silver are recovered from iron ore at the Cornwall Iron Mines in Lebanon county.

From 1918 through 1941, 14,231 ounces of gold valued at $457,582 have been recovered at Cornwall, Doctor Stone declared and said although figures are not available for the last two years the value would be close to $750,000 for the entire 16 years.

The same process which recovers the gold from the iron ore also retrieves silver deposits which, since 1928, should total near $75,000 in value, the geologist asserted.

Gold has been found—but not in paying quantities—in Lancaster, Philadelphia and Buck counties.

'44 CAMPAIGNS MAY BE PUSHED BY PRESS, RADIO

By JACK BELL

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP)—Both major parties may cut their 1944 campaigns to a new wartime pattern short on personal appearances by presidential candidates and long on newspaper, radio and newsreel appeals.

The difficulties of transporting a presidential nominee and his party about the country in the middle of a war will be one of the chief topics of discussion when Republican committeemen and state chairmen meet in Chicago January 19 and 21.

The Republicans already are toying with the idea of having their nominee announce that because he does not wish to place any added strain on a transportation system already overburdened with troops and munitions, he will limit himself to a half dozen personal appearances for major speeches in as many sections of the country.

F. D. R.'s Trips

Naturally, the nominee will dictate any policy of this sort, but there is prevalent a belief that the old method of chartering a special train and taking along an entourage would have a damaging reaction among a public that has been urged to stay home except for necessary trips.

The Democrats also will face this problem of physical facilities, although it will be immensely reduced for them if President Roosevelt is the nominee.

The President has been making personal appearances around the country for years and could easily conduct his campaign over the radio and in press statements. In the past he has inspected various defense installations on trips which the Republicans have criticized as political in nature.

The time of their national convention, as well as the place, will be fixed by the Republicans at the Chicago meeting. The Democrats will make the same decisions at a session of their national committee here January 22.

Nitrogen is one of the most plentiful materials in nature.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

FRIENDSHIP'S SOURCE

What is it that makes the friend
so dear to our journey's end?
Is it merely flesh that can be weighed,

measured and in fine dress arrayed, or there are those of size exact which oft from us and scorn attract,
a friendship constant, unafraid,
just be of subtler substance made.

That is it into which we cling and give our hearts to cherishing?
Is it outer looks, for all have learned that love is not with those concerned,

but deeper seeks the shining eye,
the understanding of a sigh and, that which is more precious still,

devotion through both good and ill.

Just hear a name! What comes to mind?

More than the passing strangers find?

The spirit underneath the smile,
The strength that walks the extra mile

For company when need is great,
The willingness to share our fate
And strength on which we can depend.

These are the symbols of a friend.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

A FAMOUS SUPPER

I own a single Rembrandt etching.
It hangs upon my office wall where I see it daily and am inspired by it.
It is called "The Supper at Emmaus." Rembrandt must have liked the subject for he did some four paintings of it and two etchings.

The story is from St. Luke in the New Testament. The morning after the resurrection two of the disciples were walking toward Emmaus, talking things over, when they were joined by a stranger whom they did not recognize. Nearing the village, this stranger acted as though he were going on, but they asked him if he wouldn't join them at supper.
"For," said one of them, "it is getting toward evening, and the day is nearly over."

So it was that the stranger went in with them, taking a place at the small table. Immediately his face seemed to shine, and "he took the bread and blessed it and broke it in pieces and handed it to them. Then their eyes were opened, and they knew him"—for it was none other than Jesus, who had risen from the dead.

I can imagine the surprise and wonder, as well as the thrill, of those two disciples. Not even the man-servant who brought the bread to the table knew how great an honor was being bestowed upon him.

In the etching that I have shown the figure of a dog, almost hidden under the table, near the servant. I wonder why Rembrandt included it? I have noted that the artist often did this in other paintings and etchings. Perhaps he, too, loved this great companion of man.

The great lesson of this story, as depicted so beautifully in both the paintings and etchings, it seems to me, is that we never know whom we may be entertaining, unaware of greatness, for greatness is always unpretentious often touching our life in the simplest form.

It was the desire for companiship, on the part of those two disciples, and their eagerness to show their interest in another, that brought them into the presence of the Christ. Can any of us be less considerate of others?

"Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: 'Keep The Letters Flying.'"

Dispatches from Teheran said the conference atmosphere was one of extreme cordiality. The main declaration by the three leaders concluded:

"We came here with hope and determination. We leave here friends in fact, in spirit and in purpose."

First Meeting

It was the first time President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin had met.

On the first day of the conference Stalin, accompanied only by his Foreign Minister, Vyacheslav Molotov, walked up the steps of the Russian Embassy compound, which was the President's residence during his stay. He left Molotov in an anteroom with Harry L. Hopkins, the President's official adviser, and strode on alone to come face to face with the American leader who had flown thousands of miles across oceans and desert for the rendezvous further cementing Allied unity in war and peace.

It was believed to be the first time Stalin had left Russia since the Communist Revolution in 1917.

The Russian Embassy conference area, and Teheran itself, swarmed with Russian tommygunner guards, and even the Embassy servants were packing pistols.

Gift To Stalin

Security measures were heightened because it was learned a number of German saboteurs had been dropped by parachute in Iran a few weeks before the big three arrived.
Most of them were reported captured.

A number of Iranians whose loyalty was questioned, including at least one Army officer, also were locked up during the conference.

One of the ceremonious highlights of the conference at the foot of the snow-capped Elburz Mountains was the presentation by Prime Minister Churchill of the "Sword of Stalingrad" to Premier Stalin—a British recognition of the Russian heroes who turned the Nazi tide at Stalingrad last winter.

Details of the military decisions reached nationally were not disclosed, but dispatches from Teheran said there was no talk of "a second front" circulating at the conference

Jacob Hankey and John Elsesser are erecting two-story frame dwellings at the west end of Middle street. Wm. B. Meals is about finishing the enlargement of his dwelling house on York street. Mr. Grum-bine has completed his frame dwelling on the same street. The double dwelling of Jacob and Wm. Reilly, on the same street, is under foot. Philo and George Cashman are putting up a two-story frame dwelling on Stratton street. Jeremiah M. Rowe has a two-story brick dwelling on Baltimore street under roof. The handsome cottage residence of John Rupp, on Baltimore street, will be completed in a few weeks.

—an indication that that subject already had been disposed of except for final details.

Economic Issues

Nor was anything specific concerning a multitude of post-war problems, such as the Russian-Polish boundaries, dealt with in the general declarations except for the reference to the principles of the Atlantic charter and the desire to recruit a world wide "family of democratic nations."

The statement of Iran spoke of post-war "conferences of international agencies" to deal with all economic matters.

"The 'surrender or die' ultimatum, which some had expected, was not forthcoming. Instead, the big three calmly and confidently told Germany they were going to crush her armed forces in a three-sided assault and multiply the devastating air raids on her home soil.

Surrounded by the most extraordinary security measures in history, highlighted by grim Soviet soldiers patrolling the streets with unlimbered tommyguns, the gray-moustached, calm, impassive Stalin was flanked at Teheran only by his Foreign Minister, Vyacheslav Molotov, and Marshal Mleменти E. Voroshilov.

Mighty Staffs

Obviously pleased and gratified,
President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill were enfolded by their staffs of approximately 60 each, headed by Gen. George C. Marshall,
Chief of Staff of the United States
Army; Gen. Henry H. Arnold, U. S.
Army Air Chief; Lieut. Gen. Brehon
H. Somervell, Chief of the U. S.
Army Service Forces; Admiral Ber-nest J. King, Commander in Chief of the U. S. Fleet and Chief of Naval Operations; Admiral William D.
Leahy, President Roosevelt's Chief of Staff; Harry L. Hopkins, the President's Official Adviser; W.
Averell Harriman, U. S. Ambassador of Russia; John G. Winant, U.
S. Ambassador to England; Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, Chief of the British Imperial General Staff; Field Marshall Sir John Dill, chief of the British Military Mission to the U. S.; Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Por-tall, British Chief of Air Staff; Admiral Sir Andrew B. Cunningham, Church of the British Naval Staff;
Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary; and Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British Ambassador to Russia.

Intimate Sessions

The first momentous meeting of Stalin and Roosevelt occurred at 3 p. m., November 28, in the tree-circled Soviet embassy, the main building of which had been given to the President as his conference home. An hour later Churchill arrived to complete the dynamic triumvirate.

From then on the conference assumed an intimate, almost family aspect, with the three dining together nightly.

Full dress discussions with the military chiefs, the first of which lasted from 4 p. m. to 7 p. m. on November 28. Preceded by separate Anglo-American staff sessions on Monday and Tuesday mornings, the military meetings reached a smashing climax long after sunset on Tuesday.

The most powerful gathering of military brains of this war opened its final plenary session at 4:30 p. m.
that day and concluded at 7:30
p. m., with plans fully drawn to concentrate the total military might of Russia, Britain and the United States on a "relentlessly increasing" basis guaranteeing that "victory will be ours."

"Fighting Friends"

Satisfaction approaching exultation with the strategy drawn at Teheran was evinced the night of November 30 at Churchill's sixty-ninth birthday dinner at the British legation. More than 50 toasts were drunk with Stalin ambulating amiably around the table clinking glasses with each man toasted, and himself raising his glass to:

"My fighting friend Churchill."

NAZIS REPORT
INONU TALKED WITH LEADERS

(By The Associated Press)

London, Dec. 6—Turkey's future role in the European war was the subject of anxious Axis speculation today following an assertion by a German news agency yesterday that Turkish President Ismet Inonu had conferred with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in Cairo Saturday.

The conference, about which a communiqué is expected Wednesday or Thursday "after the return of the Turkish statesman," followed the history-making Iran conference of the chiefs of state of Britain and the United States with Russian Premier Stalin, the Nazi news agency Transocean said, quoting Ankara dispatches.

The Germans said that Inonu was accompanied by Numan Menemen-cioglu, Turkish foreign minister, and the general secretary of the Turkish foreign ministry. They asserted also that Emir Mansur, son of King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, and Amir Fahad, nephew of the king, arrived in Cairo Saturday, presumably "to take part in some Cairo conference."

Predict No Change

The German news agency DNB said no change in Turkish policy was expected as a result of the alleged conference, but the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio, significantly perhaps, quoted Franz von Papen, Nazi ambassador to Turkey, as saying on his arrival at Istanbul from Berlin that "Germany is anxious to continue its friendly collaboration with Turkey so that this country can be saved the horrors of war."

A Turkish declaration of war against the Axis, which would afford the Allies new air bases for operations in the Black sea, the Balkans and the Mediterranean, has been believed by some to be increasingly possible since Menemencioglu conferred with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden after the Moscow conference.

Cairo dispatches, meanwhile, disclosed that the November 22-26 conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Greetings, always glad to get the Times, even if it arrives a few days after publication, it does serve as a news messenger and letter from kin, friends and neighbors in Adams county.

It is now over a month since we arrived here, we are enjoying our first winter stay in Florida, where we have no freezes, wintry blasts, ice, sleet and snow. Everything is green on the outside, citrus fruit ripening, flowers are blooming in yard, seven kinds including the famous Xmas poinsettias. My neighbor, Dr. Jackson, came in with a five-pound lake bass, caught in Lake Cannon nearby.

Yesterday, I planted my winter victory garden, or part of it,—lettuce, radishes, spinach, beans, beets and tomatoes. Most of our time since arrival has been spent in getting settled, cleaning, painting, repairing and shopping for our needs in restricted O.P.A. markets.

We live 2 1/2 miles from shopping center, so we must shop less often, use less gas and team up with neighbors.

People here are friendly and helpful to new comers. We are enjoying Florida a lot.

O. H. Benson.

Dear Sir:

On being notified that the Gettysburg Times will soon be coming my way, I would like to inform you how much that paper will mean to me. The people are doing a swell job on keeping me well posted on the different events that have happened around home, but of course the Times carries quite a bit more. The thing that is missed is the Biglerville box scores on their athletic teams. You can also keep me in touch with numerous fellows.

Although you might have a faint idea where I am, just ask the folks around home. They'll inform anyone that cares to know. Naturally I know we won't be here until the end of the war. I have an idea when we'll move out, but it cannot be written.

In closing this brief letter, I would like to thank all the people who have been writing to me. You have no idea how much I appreciate those letters. I'll be a happy fellow if those letters keep coming in.

Sincerely,
PFC. GEORGE C. HOUCK,
C-o Postmaster,
San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir:

I am writing to you from the woods somewhere in Louisiana. I want to give you my thanks for sending me The Gettysburg Times and send my appreciation for your cooperation with the men and women of the armed forces. I believe what you are doing is a big part in helping win this war. When someone in the service can read the Times and find out what is going on back home it helps boost the morale and makes us want to pitch in there and fight all the more.

PVT. DALE K. SMITH,
Shreveport, La.

LABOR TURNOVER LOW

Philadelphia, Dec. 6 (AP)—Labor turnover in Philadelphia and surrounding industrial counties has reached the lowest rate since the area was threatened with a group 1 critical labor market classification, War Manpower Commission Area Director John N. Patterson announced.

9 Soldiers Killed In Bomber Crash

Elverson, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP) — A

Philadelphia flying home on a surprise visit to his mother was aboard the four-motored bomber that crashed and burned near this Chester county town Saturday night, killing nine officers and men.

He was Sgt. John F. Gillespie, 22, reported in a serious condition at Coatesville hospital where he was taken after being found in the woods near the plane's blazing wreckage.

His mother is Mrs. G. P. Gillespie of Philadelphia.

Another Philadelphia, Staff Sgt. Vincent B. McNally, 28, was killed in the crash, which came as the bomber, bound from Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma City, to the Reading (Pa.) Army Air base, headed for Philadelphia instead because of low visibility.

The Reading Air base said the cause of the crash was undetermined. The plane was heard circling Berks and Chester counties, as though seeking a landing place, for more than a half-hour before it crashed.

NEW MINIMUM WAGE

Philadelphia, Dec. 6 (AP)—A 40-cent minimum hour wage will become effective Dec. 27 in the stone, clay, glass and allied industries, Frank J. Dorsey, regional director of the wage hour division announced today.

Including automobile receiving sets, there are 60,000,000 radio receiving sets in the United States.

FINAL ASSEMBLY

By E. H. LEFTWICH

Chapter 22
"Look, Alf!" Pete grinned, snatched the old man on the shoulder and pointed to the big chart on the wall in Final Assembly. "We've met our schedule already... and we've still six more days to go!"

"Fine," Alf said, eyes shining. "I've seen so many ships pouring out the door, before, I never thought we could do it."

"I knew we could," Pete said. "All we needed was a chance to prove it."

"I'm feeling kind of happy, myself, tonight," Alf put in. "How so?"

"Well, it looks like I'm gonna be able to quit, Friday. Foreman and Night Super both signed my Termination. Got it here now, in my pocket. He patted his side. "Bass are biting good these days, and there's some flower beds over to the home that need looking after."

"Sorry, Alf," Pete said, "but I don't think you'll turn that Termination slip in after all..."

"The hell I won't. Why not?"

"Here comes Tim Brandon, now. He'll explain."

Tim walked up to the old man. He reached over and took the green badge off Alf's collar. He replaced it with a white "Chief Inspector's badge."

"W-w-what's the idea?" Alf stammered.

"You are now Chief Inspector of Final Assembly," Tim said. "I picked up Alf's hand and shook it. 'Incidentally, the job carries a thirty cent raise.'"

The old man stood as if hypnotized. "As official plant personnel investigator," Pete explained, "I had to turn in a report on you, too, Alf. Knowing these ships as you do, I knew you'd make a swell inspector, especially since you are little and skinny and can squirm around through the ships and find things other inspectors would overlook."

"Say," Alf exclaimed, "that's swell!" He reached into his pocket and drew out the Termination slip. He tore it into bits. "But what about Teeny Smith?" he wanted to know. "I don't want to beat him out of his job."

"You won't," Pete said. "I've taken care of Teeny. He was too fat for an inspector anyway. Never could quite get into the rear cockpit. Teeny is taking Tim Brandon's place, while Tim goes up to General Foreman."

"Art Melvin, walked up and drew Pete aside. "How about the Paint shop?" he asked.

"What do you mean, the Paint shop?"

"I mean your report, Pete. It's the only department on which you haven't reported."

"But I didn't intend to report on it. I know nothing whatever about paint or its application."

"Nevertheless, you know workmanship. Let me have a report on the Paint shop personnel in a few days."

"Okay, Mr. Melvin. But they all know about this deal now. What will they think?"

"They won't think anything. I'm sending you in there to help an electrician who is going to install some new fluorescent lighting fixtures."

Pete spent the next two nights in the paint shop on a scaffold, helping an electrician. He had completed his reports on the personnel who, on the whole, seemed to be unusually good workers. All except one.

And that one was Kitty. In all his life, Pete could not remember ever having seen such crude, slipshod workmanship. Practically every job she turned out had to be "re-worked" slyly, behind her back, by one of her fellow-workers, who went to great pains to keep her from seeing them, fearing to hurt her feelings.

She might be exceptionally good as an amateur artist with a cat-hair brush and oils, or with a pencil and sketching paper, but she wrought havoc with a spray-gun and disaster with a two-inch brush. Furthermore, she was carelessness personified. In the two nights he had spent in the Paint shop she had visited First-aid no less than four times for trivial accidents.

Pete was worried. If he remained truthful and honest, nothing remained but that he must turn in a report recommending Kitty's discharge for inefficiency. If he did that, he knew he would lose her.

The thought was unbearable. They had been so close during these past few days, after his trouble with the mob. She had stopped seeing Brackmide, entirely, and it was understood that he was to take her home each night, after work.

He was ready to ask her the important question, the question, which if answered in the affirmative, and he had every right to believe that it would be, would make him the happiest man alive.

And, now, it looked as though he'd have to lose her. She would never forgive him. If only he were, just slightly, just a bit... dishonest, then... But no. He had to be honest.

Hold Pair In Kiddies' Deaths

Chester, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Mildred Bacon, a 16-year-old child's maid and her asserted sweetheart Raymond Bradshaw, 22-year-old truck driver, today were held on charge of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of three small children from illuminating gas poisoning early Saturday.

Bradshaw and the girl admitted, Fred Jack, chief of Delaware county detectives said, that they "cooked eggs and bacon about midnight Saturday and blew out the stove's four gas jets, because they could not turn them off, and then went back to bed."

Frank P. Sousa, 35, a shipyard welder and father of the children, slept in an adjoining bedroom with no ill effects, Jack said. Marie Sousa, the children's mother who is also a shipyard welder, was at work at the time.

Jack said the escaping gas was noticed by Sousa about 6 a. m. when he heard Bradshaw fall to the floor and begin to moan. He then hurried to police without stopping to investigate. The children, Gene, 3; Frank, 2; and Alice four months, were discovered on Sousa's return with police, Jack said.

Municipal Authorities Committee To Report

Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—State Senator Clarence D. Becker said today he would report "good progress" by his legislative committee studying municipal authorities—agencies set up to operate local utilities—when he goes before the joint state government commission Thursday, December 16.

The Lebanon county Republican said the legislative research agency had asked him for a report at its next meeting and that he will tell the group "we are getting along fine."

The Plot Against Santa

YESTERDAY: Santa Claus discovers his reindeer and sleigh have been stolen. He knows that unless he gets them back he will not be able to distribute his gifts on Christmas.

CHAPTER 3

THE FORESTS OF GHOALS
Santa and Mrs. Claus went into their little cottage and as soon as the door closed behind them Mrs. Claus burst into tears.

"It was such a mean thing for those ghouls to do," she sobbed. "Why ever would they have wanted to harm us?"

But Santa said nothing. He sat rocking before the fire and when Mrs. Claus peeped at him she saw he had put on his thinking cap. This was a funny little skull cap—black with a red tassel—which Santa wore when he wanted to think very hard.

Mrs. Claus stopped crying and went out to the kitchen to make some hot chocolate. "This will help him to think even better," she said to herself.

Meanwhile, out by the stables, a strange thing was happening. The Santa Land Brownies had run into the woods and brought back four wild reindeers.

"We will teach these to fly," they cried. "How pleased Santa will be when he sees!"

All the fairies and elves cheered up immensely as they set about teaching the four strange reindeer to fly. But, try as they would, the poor creatures could do no more than give a few clumsy leaps into the air and then fall back to the earth.

At last the fairies gave it up. "It's all quite useless," they said unhappily. "No reindeer in the world can fly except Santa's very own."

While all this was happening, Misha, the Ghou, stood at the reins in Santa's sled and drove Santa's reindeer furiously through the night skies.

When he was only half way to King Uttar's castle, he suddenly circled the reindeer twice in the sky and then slid down to the earth in a great black forest. This was the Forest of Ghouls and Misha had stopped for a visit before turning over his prize to the King.

Hardly had the sled landed then crowds of ugly little demons and black faced goblins and crooked-legged ghouls began popping out of the trees and from under rocks and from behind bushes. They scrambled about the reindeer squealing with delight.

"Where did you get it, Misha?" asked one fat ghou who was called Ducky Ghou because he waddled about on such stout legs.

"It belongs to Santa Claus," said Misha. "I stole it this very night. I simply went to Santa's stable and hitched up the sled and was off before those silly fairies and brownies had even seen me!"

All the little creatures stopped their scrambling about when they heard this news. They stared at Misha in disbelief and finally Ducky

Protests Against English Jew Policy

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6 (AP)—Protest against the British White Paper which he said would bar Jewish immigration to Palestine after March, 1944, was urged last night by Dr. Israel Goldstein of New York, President of the Zionist Organization of America.

"It would be a terrible tragedy of the British government should bear the sign, 'No Jews admitted,'" Dr. Goldstein declared in an address before Zionists from West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Referring to the White Paper as a "black scroll of infamy," he asserted "it is the literal sentence of death to millions of innocents whose lost hopes are the open doors of Palestine."

Ghou said, "But Santa is our friend! Why did you steal his sled?" And the ugly little demons around the sled cried, "Take it back! Take it back to Santa!"

But Misha only laughed. "Not I," he said. "I am going to trade it for a soft furry animal for a pet."

The forest folk were very angry. "Santa has always been very good to us," said Ducky Ghou, his fat cheeks quivering with rage. "You do wrong to harm him."

"Yes," said another ghou. "Not a Christmas passes that Santa doesn't bring even us forest folk something. Last year he brought us a raisin pie six feet deep and fifteen feet around. Now he won't be able to bring us anything!"

"Perhaps not," replied Misha unfeelingly. "But I must be on my way."

And with a pull at the reins, he caused the reindeer to leave the ground and carry the sled into the sky. All the folk in the forest creamed with anger but there was nothing they could do.

Misha was already out of sight high in the clouds.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, Dec. 6 (AP)—Christmas cheer in allotments of an hour, two hours and more is to be made available by the networks as part of their observance of the second wartime Santa Claus day. A call has been sent out for all available talent, ranging from stars to script actors.

The basis of the special shows is a salute to both the war and home fronts, with particular attention to service men overseas. In fact, it is hoped to include some of them in pickups from the fighting areas.

Of the longer programs so far listed, a round the world two and one-half hour broadcast is planned by NBC for 2 p. m. Christmas Day. Its theme will be the holiday observance at fronts the world over and will be preceded by a half-hour's presentation of Christmas at home.

Edward J. Ryan, Eagles Leader, Dies

Philadelphia, Dec. 6 (AP)—Edward J. Ryan, past grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, died Saturday. He was 74.

Ryan, a native of County Galway, Ireland, held every post in the Order, serving a grand worthy president in 1929 and later as chairman of the Board of Grand Trustees.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mary McMullin, Wilmington, Delaware, and a sister, Mrs. Michael Maione.

Planes Aid In Makin Invasion

American fighter planes, with belly tanks to give them longer range, swoop in to strafe as the first wave of American assault troops head for Makin, Japanese-held island in the Gilberts, Nov. 21. The island was securely in American hands within three days. This is the first of a series of pictures of the Makin Island invasion, taken by Clarence Hamm, Associated Press photographer on assignment with the wartime still photo pool. (AP Wirephoto.)

CONSULT JONES ON CONTRACT LAW

Washington, Dec. 6 (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee called on Secretary of Commerce Jones and High War, Navy and Maritime Commission officials today for their recommendations on the war contract renegotiation law which Chairman George (D-Ga.) says should be repealed.

The pending $2,140,000,000 tax increase bill upon which the committee is winding up public hearings contains a series of house-approved amendments to the renegotiation statute. Billions of dollars worth of war contracts have been rechecked under the law and excessive profits recovered.

George says the act has outlived any usefulness it might have had at the start of the rearmament program. He pointed out that cost of war goods are becoming firmly established and declared no useful purpose would be served by subjecting contractors to what he terms arbitrary and capricious decisions.

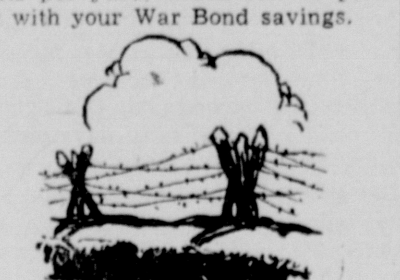

The House approved a score of changes. One of the most important would establish a central War Contracts Price Adjustment Board in charge of renegotiation. Further, the House provided that if a contractor was dissatisfied with the

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Wire Scarce

Barbed wire is growing more and more scarce on the farms and is becoming more and more plentiful out in the Pacific and in the environs of Hitler's fortress.

The kind the Army and the Marine Corps uses is costing us about four cents per yard, which can be paid for with your War Bond savings.

Barbed wire and War Bonds by themselves will not win a war, but every army needs mile upon mile of it and our country needs the support of millions upon millions of Bond buyers in these critical times.

CHALFANT SPEAKS

State College, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Journalism students at Pennsylvania State college gathered today for an address by Floyd Chalfant, Secretary of Commerce, on how the state government functions. Other addresses on the same subject will be given by Miss S. M. R. O'Hara, Secretary of Welfare, on January 17, and by Charles M. Morrison, Secretary of the Commonwealth, on a date to be announced.

OLD VET DIES

Uniontown, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP) — Abraham L. Goss, 95, Civil War veteran who organized the Bellwood band, famous in Blair county many years ago, died today at the home of a son, Charles Goss, of Uniontown, where he had lived the last 15 years. Goss was a contractor at Bellwood for 60 years.

DEPOT WORKER KILLED

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Dec. 6 (AP)—Patrick Joseph Shaughnessy, 63, of Mahanoy City, was instantly killed Saturday while working in the Naval Supply Depot here. Depot officials said Shaughnessy was checking supplies being stacked in a warehouse when a box fell and struck him on the head.

Dead Marines Float Along Shore Of Tarawa

Bodies of dead U. S. Marines, killed as they waded ashore from stranded landing craft under murderous Jap shellfire for the invasion of Tarawa Island in the Gilberts, float in the sea near two damaged "Alligators" track-propelled amphibious craft—on and near a sea-wall. Smoke still rises from destroyed Jap installations as a group of Marines moves along the shore. (AP Wirephoto from Marine Corps.)

Jap Prisoners Captured On Tarawa

A number of the few Jap prisoners captured by U. S. Marines when they seized Tarawa Island in the Gilberts after a bitter 76-hour battle, are marched along a beach under heavy Marine guard. The Jap's defensive barbed wire entanglements serve to keep the prisoners from trying to escape. Prisoners are ordered to walk in a steeped position as further safeguard against escape. 'ONE MAN ARMY' STOPS GERMANS SINGLE HANDED

With the Fifth Army Near Mig-nano, Dec. 6 (Delayed) (AP)—Second Lt. Charles E. Kelly, of Pittsburgh, "Commando Kelly" they call him on the Italian front, turned out to be a real tough gent where the Germans are concerned.

It seems the Germans aroused the Irish temper of "Commando Kelly" in a fracas on a mountain side near here in which the Kanks battled with some stubborn Nazis who did not know about Lt. Kelly's Irish ancestry.

The Pittsburgh scorge moved in on a machinegun nest with his automatic rifle blazing, but suddenly the gun jammed.

The Germans saw "Commando Kelly" was in trouble so they came out of their foxholes after him. Kelly could not shoot at them, but in a slit trench beside him was a stack of mortar shells. So he pulled the plugs on some of the shells and threw them at the Germans by hand. And he stopped them cold.

"See You Later"

Not long after he was in a small village with a few men when the Germans started a new attack. He saw his small force couldn't hold out and ordered his men to the rear.

"Get the hell out," he told his sergeant. "I'll hold them off and see you later."

The last his buddies saw of Kelly as they left the village he was shooting at the Germans from a window of a building. His lone tommy gun popping like mad.

And Kelly did see his buddies later. He walked into camp and said "I want some more ammunition. I'm going back after those b—s. They can't chase me out of town."

Pugh Says Fighting Men Are World's Best

Philadelphia, Dec. 6 (AP)—Our fighting men are "the best physically, spiritually and mentally equipped the world has ever seen," the Rev. William B. Pugh, who recently returned from a 91-day tour of the battlefronts said today.

"But what of the folks at home?" "Over here," he told the congregation of the Second Presbyterian church, observing its 200th anniversary, we are more interested in organizing and antagonizing. We'd rather hold conferences and make plans than commune with God."

Knights of the middle ages often wore armor weighing as much as 200 pounds.
